Neotrie VR: A medieval/fantasy game set in a magical land where dinosaurs have devoured the world's tree population. The one man's mission is to keep the NPCs safe from the dinos. It's an indepth and immersive sci-fi experience in the best VR headsets. No Google Cardboard! Manage your resources while playing the role of a village gardener and keep the villagers safe at the same time. All while protecting the country's future and proving yourself to be a true hero. Neotrie VR was created in collaboration with the talented Lucas Elterman, making the game happen. The game is on a four month journey so far to polish up gameplay features, fill in missing animations, and add more options. And to top it all off, we're adding the ability to press "Share" to let people play on the PC version as well! Online Multiplayer: Scheduled to be available in 3 weeks! "Steady game that quickly made me a fan." 10/5 – Chris Hardwick As if we were too kind in getting praise from the entire Screen Junkies family, we were then surprised to get the coveted "fanspotted" from Chris Hardwick himself, the "Man" of 'The Nerdist" and someone who really strives to get the best VR game out there. We're super happy to have him on board, and he's definitely going to be reviewing it! Online Multiplayer: Scheduled to be available in 6 weeks! "i really loved that i could drag a plant into the village to get it to grow" 8/5 - Tim Hatfield One of the things we wanted to do for the game was immerse you in a soothing and relaxing type experience and not be too focused on the world around you, like a lot of VR experiences. This was one of the great things we came up with: the birds! In the game, you play a village gardener. You are given a little backstory as to why the world was destroyed in the first place and you learn that a blight on the trees allowed the dinosaurs to devour the forest, and the last thing they wanted was food. So in your quest for survival, you find little creatures that live in the trees. As they make their way through the trees, they walk over your placed plants.

The new Dressing Room series returns with another set of beautiful fantasies for players to try on. The ability to purchase costume sets has also been added to the game! This week, I've put together a set of four outfits that I hope you will enjoy wearing in Fable II. The costumes come in sets of three, and are available in Male, Female, Hetero and Furry versions. Each of the outfits is available for both Male and Female avatar types. There is also a version available for those who are a furry of sorts: a Furries outfit! As with the outfits available in the previous Dressing Room, each set of clothes comes with a whole bunch of new items, including new styles of 'Identification Tag', 'Sarong', 'Glasses' and 'Hair Transplant' related items. This week's Dressing Room also sees the introduction of a new 'Game Power' called 'The Dating Game'. This power makes it possible for you to approach another Avatar in an effort to try out new outfits! (Of course, your success in this will depend on how well you look and your own Avatar's game.) The 'The Dating Game' power is available from the 'Special Powers' menu under the 'Other' category. To sum up the difference between the two outfits, here are the descriptions for each: Furries: The Furries outfit is designed by Sessha as an homage to the outfits worn by furries. In this outfit you will find all the clothing items that are normally worn by furries, such as beards, tights, socks, hats and more. This is a great outfit for people who are into furry or/and costume fetish activity! Gentlemen's Coat: The 'Gentlemen's Coat' outfit is a perfect replica of the many gentlemen coats that are commonly seen around. It gives you a refined, formal, almost royal feel.This is a great outfit for people looking to achieve a respectable, sophisticated and formal look. Shady Sunglasses: The 'Shady Sunglasses' costume set is a great deal more than just a pair of sunglasses. With it you can wear fashionable, sophisticated and powerful shades that will always be one step ahead of their opponents. This item also features two shades for you to swap around. Fancy Lingerie: What is better than fancy lingerie? It's a secret, of course c9d1549cdd

What's new in Mighty Monster Mayhem:

, KS–On the one-year anniversary of the Democratic National Committee's political data breach, the hacker group Anonymous attacked the official website of the Democratic Party. According to a cryptic note left on the website, the assault was in retaliation for the "activities," or "tens of millions of dollars," that the Democratic Party has given to corporations, like Monsanto, for the purpose of "American imperialism." "Let the hacking begin," said the note, which also copied and pasted the text of a previous message left on the website. DNC officials said they are currently looking into this incident, but it is unclear if they will take any action against the hackers. The Party's job website, which contains information on the Party's policies, convention schedules, and current events, was mysteriously disabled as of 08:45 a.m. EST. The main page was replaced with an image of the hacker group seeking changes to the Party's stance on GMOs. "We ask the DNC to overhaul its actions, to peacefully end the war on [the US] People and their Health. We ask the DNC to end all funding of the war on [the US] Peoples' Rights to Food, Water and Livestock," the note read. The original message left on the website read, "Anonymous. The Democratic Party Is No Longer Democratic." The image shows the name of the group underneath the text. Anonymous, known for its way of conducting "hacktivists," has in the past attacked pro-Russian and anti-government parties in the UK, South Korea, and Ukraine, among others. In the US, Anonymous has been accused of having ties to Occupy protestors and a recent "Email Leaks" incident involving a hacker named Jeremy Hammond. The hacker's release of a trove of emails from the Israeli spy agency – the Mossad – back in 2012 upset many people across the US and the world as the emails appeared to reveal that the agent orchestrated the destruction of black churches in 1980s Alabama. It also served to call attention to the fact that the agency had seemingly disconnected from its founding mission of "keeping the state's citizens safe." "Next time you vote against another Republican candidate, remember that a Republican'
